OCCUPANCY AND RENT TRENDS

ECONOMIC, DEMOGRAPHIC FACTORS SUPPORT APARTMENT FUNDAMENTALS

Continued job growth, rising household formation, and a shortage of single-family housing stoked metro Atlanta apartment fundamentals. Since mid-2018, renters newly occupied 12,106 apartments while builders completed 10,218 units. Developers continued to favor adding amenity-rich apartments in the neighboring Buckhead and Midtown Atlanta submarkets, which accounted for more than one-third of the new inventory. Vigorous leasing activity across the metro pushed average occupancy to 95.0% in the second quarter of this year, 50 basis points higher than the same period in 2018. Operators capitalized on the brisk demand, raising average effective rent to $1,241 per month in June, a 5.2% year-over-year increase compared to 3.8% annual growth in June 2018. The wave of new apartments is expected to continue over the next four quarters as 10,823 apartments are slated for completion among 47 apartment communities. Just over 2,400 of these apartments are scheduled for delivery in the Buckhead and Midtown Atlanta submarkets. The in-migration of well-compensated Millennials at tech-centered businesses in these two submarkets is expected to keep apartment demand high.

Local employers created 49,200 new jobs in the 12-month period ending in April 2019, a 1.8% year-over-year gain. The influx of new companies, numerous corporate expansions, and the in-migration of more than 62,400 people into the metro area supported this growth. The professional and business services sector led job creation, where 14,700 new positions were filled through April of this year, a 2.8% annual gain. Education and health services institutions followed with 12,600 new jobs, a 3.6% increase. Boosted by the formation of 38,600 households, approximately 8,000 jobs were created in the food services and drinking places subsector, a major contributor to the 11,100 new jobs in the leisure and hospitality sector. The trade, transportation, and utilities sector expanded 1% with 6,200 additional workers, supported by the first of 850 relocated and new workers at Norfolk Southern Railway's headquarters in Midtown. Additionally, clothing wholesaler and retailer PVH Corp. plans to hire 575 workers following completion of its new distribution center in Palmetto.
